

many times before in so-called "independent" commissions, I give the hope that the Commission will do an complete and honest job with their charged duties about the same odds as the British had in escaping unscathed back to Boston from Concord, Massachusetts on April 19, 1775. And as I remember quite well, the Brits didn't do too good that day, and were lucky to escape at all.

---

mail2web - Check your email from the web at <http://mail2web.com/> .